Decisive construction phase - November 2021

At the beginning of November, the construction of our new company headquarters entered the final, decisive phase. Finishing work is currently being carried out by our main contractor. As agreed, construction is expected to be completed in November/December. Before the end of the year we will receive the last elements of the central backfill, and its installation will be completed in February. The rest of the new machines will also arrive at the same time. Relocation of the entire company from its current headquarters will begin in early March next year.
